Jones hearing completed

Board reverses vote, reinstates band director

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has voted to extend a contract to band director Lana Kay Jones for the 1987-88 school year, reversing an earlier decision not to reemploy the teacher.

Four members, Betty Diboll, Linda Penrose, L.D. Carter and Reginald Robinson, voted Tuesday to extend a contract to Jones on a motion by Penrose.

A fifth trustee, Charles Benvenuti, had agreed not to participate in the vote because he had made the original motion on March 30 not to reemploy Jones, the teacher's attorney, John Deakle, stated.

The board had heard about four hours of testimony and deliberated more than half an hour in executive session prior to the vote.

The board had delayed its decision in the only other teacher nonreemployment hearing conducted in open session, which was for North Bay Elementary School teacher Juanita Mitchell.

On Tuesday, Diboll, who serves as board president, recommended that the decision on Jones' case not be delayed "because we have so many other pressing issues we should be looking into in this school district."

Deakle then asked that the board take the vote by democratic ballot, one vote per member, and disclose to Jones and the public which way each member voted.

After the hearing, Jones stated, "I'm glad it's over. Maybe my life can return to some semblance of normalcy."

She called what she had been through since April 7, the day she received the letter stating her contract would not be renewed, and since the first part of her hearing June 2, "indescribable."

"I followed this channel certainly for myself but also for every other teacher in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school system and Mississippi," she said, referring to her actions in requesting a hearing before the board as well as her failed attempt to obtain a federal judge's restraining order to keep the board members from acting as hearing officers.

Jones had explained at the time that she and Deakle felt the board could not render a fair and impartial decision in a hearing after having rendered the original decision of nonreemployment.

At the end of the hearing, Deakle repeated an earlier motion that the board members be disqualified as hearing officers, stating that he was repeating the objection as a matter of procedure.

"I certainly hope by the beginning of fall term the school board will have worked with a committee of teachers to come up with a personnel policy to protect its employees," the band director added.

"I hold no grudges against the board or anyone else. My greatest concern at this point is what damage this conflict may have done to the band program."

"Another thing that I regret is the cost to me financially and to the taxpayers of the Bay-Waveland school district for their attorney's fee, the court stenographers fee and extra per diem if the board got paid for the meetings."

Additional expenses on both sides would have been incurred had the board not decided to extend the band director a 1987-88 contract, because she had planned to take the matter to Chancery Court.

Jones, who had walked into the first part of the hearing past about 30 parents and students carrying signs supporting her and who had received several hugs and handshakes after the decision was announced Tuesday, said the proceedings were difficult for her from an emotional standpoint.

"I want to thank all the parents, students and other faculty members for their support because I could not have made it through this emotionally without their backing," she said.

ST. TAMMANY PARISH MURDER VICTIM'S CAR FOUND IN HANCOCK

Murder suspect abandons victim's car in Hancock

BY EDGAR H. PEREZ

Sheriff's department investigators are seeking information from anyone in Hancock County who may have had contact with the occupant of a car found in Hancock County Tuesday morning.

The car, located at a "blue hole" across Hwy. 607 from the Hancock County Welcome Center by Hancock Deputy Ronnie Cuevas, was owned by a 19-year-old Kentucky college student who was murdered May 19 in Fountainbleau State Park near Mandeville, La.

The car—a dark blue, two-door

1985 Honda Accord bearing Georgia tag number JWG-892—is believed to have been abandoned in Hancock County by a 20-year-old federal prison escapee who is suspected in the state park murder, according to Lieutenant Clark Thomas of Slidell, member of the St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Department, Detective Division.

Thomas identified the murder victim as Stephanie Dumbacher, a student at Cumberland State University in Williamsburg, Ky.

She is believed to have been on spring break from the college and camping alone in the park when she was killed in May, Thomas said. Suspected in the killing and being sought on a first degree murder charge by St. Tammany Parish is David Frederick Crowell, originally from Massachusetts, Thomas added.

Crowell is described as a 20-year-old white male, six feet, three inches tall, weighing 170 pounds with blond hair cut in a short military style, blue eyes, possibly wearing military garb or carrying military baggage.

Thomas said Crowell was discharged from the U.S. Army

Community action agency pools resources to weather-proof "tar paper" residence

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Pooling resources from several different areas, the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency is planning to help Joyce and Henry Bauer get a roof and walls on their house in BaySide Park.

Bauer was having serious problems with her utility bill and having learned of the weatherization program, contacted the community action agency.

However after examining the house, the agency stated they would not be able to help the Bauers because they had a limit of $600 which could be spent for weatherization and the Bauer house would need much more than that.

Basically all the house has is the framework, with a roof covered with plywood. Both the roof and the walls are covered with tar paper.

There are many holes and gaps in the tar paper and groceries on a shelf inside the house are visible from the outside.

Old newspaper and rags have been stuffed in the holes and cardboard boxes have been nailed up inside for a ceiling.

The house has no solid doors only screen doors at the openings which are covered with blankets in the winter.

When the initial request was denied, Mrs. Bauer did not give up and she wrote to the governor's office seeking help.

The governor's office then contacted the community action agency and Janice Green, weatherization coordinator, and Pat Harvey, Hancock County coordinator, began gathering information and resources to help the Bauers.

Through their efforts grants in the amount of $1,600 have been secured for the weatherization of the Bauer home in addition to private contributions of labor and discounts on building materials.

"We have about 75 percent of the amount we need at this point," Harvey said.

"We have estimated it will take approximately $2,500 to do the job properly but with what we have now we will be able to do some work," Green said.

"We are actually going to be able to have the house fixed in a manner to conserve energy," Harvey said.

Priorities on the house will be the roof, ceiling, doors, windows, siding and insulation, Green said.

"Unless we get additional funding we will be able to put insulation only in the roof because there is nothing to hold it on the wall in the inside," Green said.

"We want to do something to the inside walls but we don't have enough money," she added.

In addition to the Bauers, Mrs. Spadonia's 76-year-old mother, Verdie Spadonia, lives in the house which has a total of 780 square feet of living area.

Mrs. Spadonia suffers from Alzheimer's disease and is bedridden.

The total income in the house is Mrs. Spadonia's Social Security and Supplemental Security Income, which does not exceed $356 per month.

Because of her mother's illness, Mrs. Bauer must take constant care of her and Mr. Bauer is also unable to hold a permanent job due to ill health.

Anyone wishing to donate funds, building materials or labor should contact Pat Harvey or Mayola Haynes at 467-3198.

Council adopts swimming pool fencing ordinance

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Voting unanimously, the Bay St. Louis City Council approved a ordinance which will require fences around all swimming pools located in the city limits.

Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz recommended the ordinance, stating the council had briefly discussed this ordinance last year but one had never been passed.

"To promote public safety all outdoor pools, including swimming pools, wading pools, artificial pools or other in-ground vessels exceeding 16 square feet in area and having a depth of 12 inches or greater shall be completely surrounded by a fence, with a lockable gate, at least 36 inches high," the ordinance states.

Frankiewicz said he had talked with insurance companies and a 36 to 42-inch fence was recommended but since 42 inches is not a standard size fence it would be a hardship to

County school board receives good interest rate for bonds

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board should be receiving funds for its building program within 30 days from a $6.6 million bond sale.

The board voted Monday to accept a bid from First Tennessee Bank National Association of Memphis, Tenn. to purchase the bonds which will pay an interest rate of 7.2974 percent.

Charles Adams of the law firm of Brunini, Grantham, Grower and Hewes of Jackson said the school board had received an "excellent" bid on the bonds.

Adams, serving as bond counsel for the board, opened the two bids received at Monday's recess meeting.

Howard, Weill, Lambouisse and Fredericks, Inc., a bonding company from Jackson, submitted a bid with an interest rate of 7.3273.

"These bids are excellent, much lower than expected," Adams stated.

Adams said rates of 7.6 had been quoted as late as two weeks ago.

"The school district is benefiting from a very good change in the market," he said.

"The district is very fortunate to receive such good rates," Adams added.

Following an inspection of the bids by Adams and Business Manager

Greg Jones, the school board voted to accept the low bid and a good faith check from the winning bidder in the amount of $132,000.

Also during the meeting, School Board President Frank Miller reported the board is currently negotiating with the Crump family for a different site on which to locate the new junior-senior high school.

The Crump family in December donated a 40-acre parcel of land to the school board for the construction of a new school.

Miller said three or four other sites are being considered.

"The Crump Family came to us to begin negotiations for another site because of all the controversy that has arisen around the current site," Miller added.

"They want the public to be happy, for us to be happy and everyone to be happy about the site for the new school," he continued.

There have been protests by several concerned citizens about the suitability of the current site.

Miller said all of the alternate sites for the new school are in the same general area of the first site which is located off Highway 603 north of I-10.

"But all of the new sites are north of Nicholls Road," he added.

Board Member Bernette Necaise said she is glad the architect for the building project has been selected because now the board can be assisted in the selection of a new site by the architect or members of the firm.

The board had earlier voted to employ Thompson and Associates of Jackson for the architectural and design work.

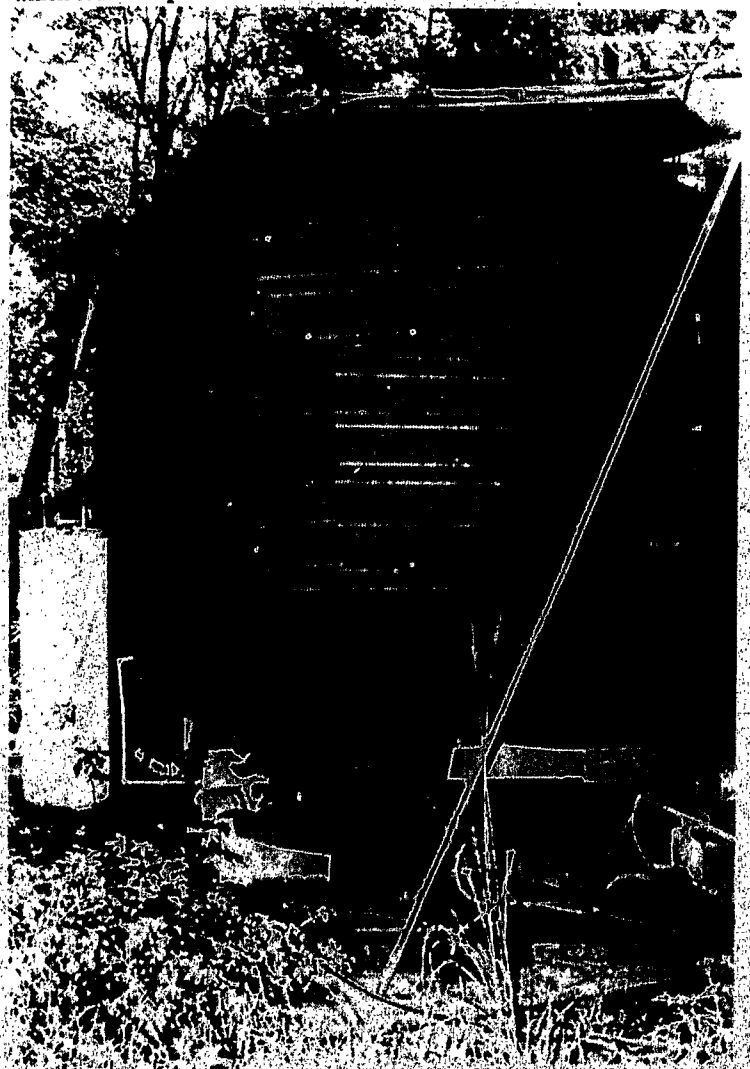

In a description of the company's staff proposal, a combined professional strength of 13 architects and engineers, supported by 11 technicians was listed.

"They will be able to give us information needed to select the best site," Necaise added.

The board's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday night, 7 p.m.

Supervisors accept beach repair bid

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has accepted a bid of $249,280 for spot repairs on Beach Road and the seawall.

The bid was the only one submitted by Monday's 10 a.m. deadline and came from Southland Enterprises, a firm which has completed other contracts for Hancock County.

The bid, according to County Engineer Larry Seal, was within the estimated cost of the project and was close to the high estimate of $250,000.

The work does not include replacement of two cracked and deteriorated box culverts at Buccaneer State Park and Clermont Harbor, but does include replacement of one pipe culvert that has recently collapsed, the engineer said.

Much of the work consists of pressure grouting, or pumping fill material, into voids underneath the road itself.

Some sections of seawall railing, blocks that are part of the seawall and broken concrete paving have to be replaced, Seal added.

The board agreed that the riprap left from the project can be given to the city of Waveland for use on one of the city piers.

The work to be done, as Seal explained it, is scattered "all along the road except in the city of Bay St. Louis."

The number of voids under the road found during one of Seal's inspections more than a year ago led the supervisors to limit the road to light traffic, which means passenger cars and pick-up trucks.

The money for the repairs will be taken out of seawall tax funds.

Seal stated that the work on the road is not expected to interfere with summer beachfront traffic, although at some points one lane of the road will be close while repairs are in progress.

In other business Monday, the supervisors:

—Declared July 6 a holiday in observance of July 4, adding that the board will hold its regularly scheduled meeting that day although other courthouse offices will be closed;

—Rejected bids on a Hancock County Sheriff's Department boat that the county had advertised for sale; and —Approved a resolution proposed by Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge, asking that the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission use its surplus funds to build metal buildings at Port Bienville Industrial Park as a method of attracting industry.

The board's next regular meeting will be 9 a.m. June 29 in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Bay St. Louis facing lawsuit after denying building permit

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council received a letter this week from a law firm representing Fred Bilbo of Bay St. Louis who was recently denied a building permit for constructing a house on Melody Lane.

The letter, from Rushing and Guice of Bay St. Louis, requested the city council and adjustment board reconsider denial of a variance which prevented him from getting a building permit.

At the council's June 2 meeting, it voted to approve a recommendation by the Bay St. Louis Board of Adjustments to deny the variance since the area in question does not meet minimum frontage or total area square feet requirements.

The variance, requested for Lots 18 and 19 in the Melody Lane Subdivision, asked for a reduction in lot width from 100 feet to 50 feet and minimum lot area square feet from 12,000 to 8,400.

Bilbo told both the board of adjustment members and the council in separate meetings he was requesting the variance in order to build a house.

According to the adjustment board the denial was based on the fact that "Mr. Bilbo created his own hardship by purchasing a non-conforming lot."

The reconsideration of the denial was requested because if a house cannot be constructed on these lots "this property has no use."

"The effect of this denial is to deprive Mr. Bilbo of the use of his real property, without paying just compensation to him," the letter continued.

Just compensation is guaranteed by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, the letter stated.

The letter also described a recent ruling by the United States Supreme Court requiring local governments to pay just compensation to landholders, if zoning regulation deprive the landowners of the use of their land.

"Rather than appeal the decision of the Zoning Board and file a separate suit for damages, Mr. Bilbo would prefer that the denial be reconsidered and that he be permitted to construct his house," the letter continued.

Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz told the council, City Attorney Robert Genin had also received a copy of the letter and was reviewing the matter.

Frankiewicz also said the recent ruling by the Supreme Court may not have any bearing on this issue since the circumstances are so different.

The council did not take any action on the issue.

Irate resident offers reward for prosecution of mail box vandals

A Bay St. Louis resident has asked to remain anonymous is upset over constant and senseless vandalism committed on rural route mail boxes.

He is offering a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible. Information may be mailed to: RESIDENT, P.O. Box 167, Bay St. Louis, Ms. 39520.

The information will be turned over to the local police, the sheriff's office and to postal authorities, he advises.

The resident comments further, "I fail to see or understand just what fun or pleasure can be derived from committing acts of shameful vandalism on other's personal property."

"I, for one, have had to replace my mailbox three times in the past four months. This is not a 'macho' act, it is the work of cowards as it is done under the cover of darkness and in shameful ways."

"It is evident, simply by driving down any outlying street or road that others are suffering the same problem. I have reported this matter to the local police and to Post Office personnel."

"Both agree that this is an ongoing problem. I, for one, feel that a concentrated effort should be made to bring it to a halt. I am doing what I can even though it means staying up nights and just waiting."

"They will come along again sooner or later and I will catch them."

"I do not know if parents of teenagers are aware of their responsibility in such matters but all should be further advised that should U.S. Mail be damaged or lost due to these acts, they are now faced with a Federal offense, which carries a heavy fine and jail term."

"Should any other resident care to add to my reward, they should contact me through the above address."

New limits imposed for losses and credits from tax shelters

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 has imposed new restrictions on loss deductions and credits resulting from tax shelters, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Beginning in 1987, existing at-risk rules that restrict deductions for losses from certain types of investments are extended to the activity of holding real estate. Under these rules, deductions for losses from a real estate activity are limited to the amount the taxpayer has placed at risk in the activity.

Losses from passive activities generally may no longer offset other income such as salaries, interest, dividends and active business income. Similarly, tax credits from passive activities generally are limited to the tax attributable to income from passive activities.

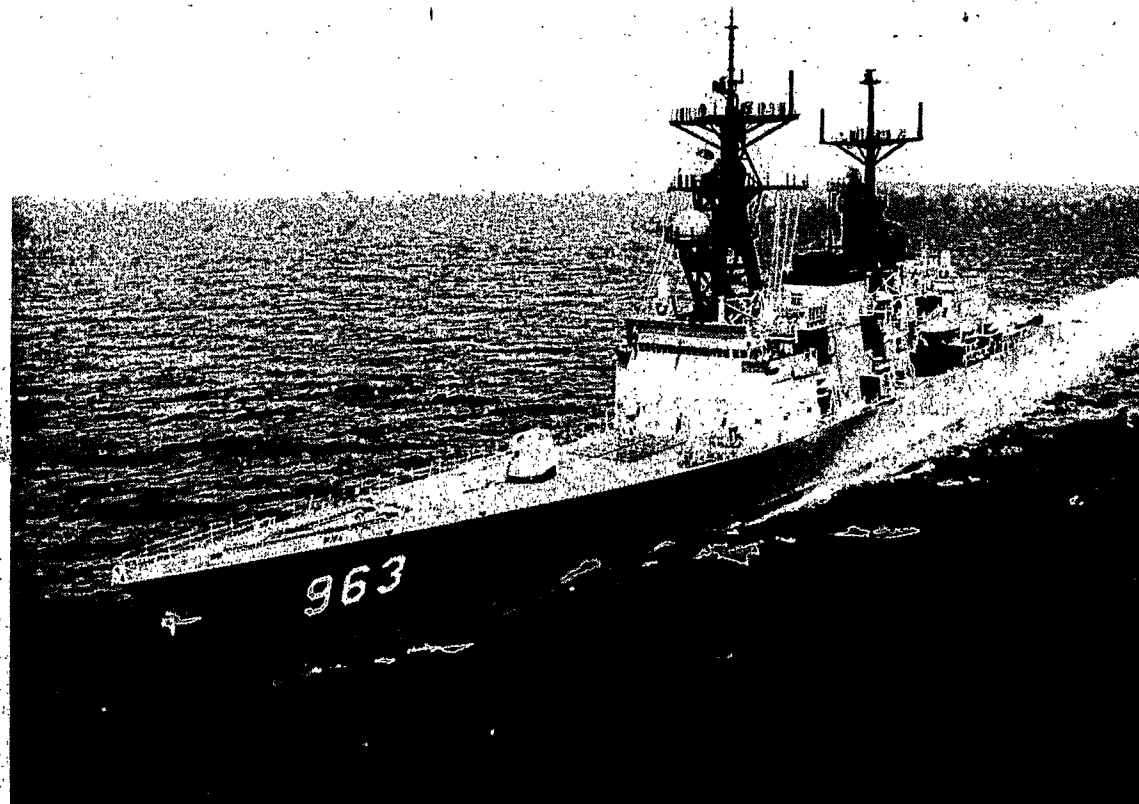

Passive activities include trade or business activities in which the taxpayer does not materially participate, and rental activities.

Investments in limited partnerships are generally considered passive activities, even if the taxpayer materially participates in the activity.

However, special rules apply to rental real estate activities in which the taxpayer actively participates.

Because the benefits of many shelters have been substantially reduced by the new tax law, IRS suggests that taxpayers may want to reconsider the economic soundness of their investments, seeking competent legal and financial advice.

DESTROYER REJOINS THE FLEET—USS Spruance (DD 963) will rejoin the U.S. Atlantic Fleet on June 12, upon completion of an overhaul by Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula. The multimission destroyer, to be homeported in Mayport, Fla. is the first U.S. combat ship to be retrofitted with vertical launching system (VLS) capabilities. VLS is a modular, below-deck mounted missile delivery system capable of launching missiles against a variety of targets. Ingalls previously installed VLS in the Aegis test ship USS Norton Sound (AVM 1) and has delivered three Aegis guided missile cruisers equipped with VLS: USS Bunker Hill (CG 52) and USS Anietam (CG 54), now in the Pacific Fleet, and USS Mobile Bay (CG 53) operating with the U.S. Atlantic Fleet. Ingalls is currently producing eight more VLS-equipped Aegis cruisers, and in the future will build ships of the VLS-equipped Arleigh Burke (DDG 51) Aegis destroyer program. Saturday is the big day for youngsters to try their luck at fishing.

It will be the day of the Third Annual Kids Fishing Rodeo sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis.

Pewee Dedeaux, chairman of the rodeo, has been working very hard to make this the best ever for our younger generation.

The rodeo is open for all boys and girls 13 years old and under, with no prior registration necessary.

Fishing will be limited from the shoreline or piers from the mouth of Jourdan River to Bayou Cadet.

This will be an opportunity for fathers and mothers to be together with their children and give them some enjoyment.

I can remember how I loved to fish and crab in my younger days. In those times it was a family affair.

The scales will be open from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the grounds of the American Legion's Memorial Pier located at the head of Washington Street in Bay St. Louis.

There will be trophies awarded in nine categories including a special crab division for the very young.

All participants will receive a free coke and hot dog in addition to a prize.

Some of the prizes have been donated by local merchants.

Legion and Auxiliary members will help with the fishing rodeo.

Post Commander Billy Taylor reminds everyone the launching pier will be closed Saturday to boat and vehicle traffic during the rodeo hours.

We hope to see you at the Kids Fishing Rodeo.

While on the subject of fishing, one must remember there are now size and number limits on certain saltwater species.

One thing right off the bat is the fact that sport-fishermen are not permitted to sell or offer for sale any saltwater fish caught or landed in the State of Mississippi.

Saltwater sportfishermen are permitted to catch and retain no more than 25 spotted seatrout (speckle trout) and 10 red drum (red fish) daily.

Saltwater sportfishermen are permitted to retain no more than five red drum or five spotted seatrout that are under fourteen inches in total length.

Red fish and speckle trout are a favorite fish caught by many local sportsmen and each should be aware of the size and number limits this year.

There are other new laws on the books for commercial and sportfishermen.

I would recommend all fishermen to secure a copy of the 1977 Mississippi Guide To Salt Water Fishing Regulations produced by the Department of Wildlife Conservation Bureau of Marine Resources.

A LEGISLATIVE BLOW TO PROPERTY TAX EQUALIZATION

Mississippians who have worked for years to bring about equity and fairness in property taxation may be discouraged by the action of the 1987 Legislature which would dismantle the equalization effort.

Professional staff members within the State Tax Commission, in fact, have argued that the legislation enacted in the recent session drives the final nail in state efforts to equalize assessments as required by the constitution.

The legislation removes the State Tax Commission from oversight responsibilities in the appraisal of individual parcels of property in the various counties, leaving equalization of assessments in the hands of local assessors and county boards of supervisors.

Unfortunately, it was the failure of local assessors and boards of supervisors to assure equity among taxpayers which brought a lawsuit in Mississippi ten years ago. Results of that lawsuit were court-ordered reappraisal and equalization.

Now, say property tax experts, Mississippi has neared completion of the reappraisal process but has not achieved equalization. Without state supervision, the experts emphasize, there is little chance for equalization and fairness among taxpayers.

Mississippians who worked for so many years for equalization, including those who funded the expensive equalization lawsuit, will be dismayed at this turn of events. And, they will want to talk to legislators about the need in 1988 to correct the problem created in 1987.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

EDUCATION MUST REMAIN NATIONAL PRIORITY

The end of the school year brings a sense of satisfaction of another year completed. It becomes a time of reflection over the year's accomplishments and a time to look forward to the needs of our nation's educational program.

While there are many issues that demand the time and attention of the Congress, I believe that no issue is more important than our commitment to education. The training and preparation of our young people who will bear the responsibility of carrying this nation forward into the next century and beyond is of vital significance.

I believe that our commitment to education has been a major factor in our nation's economic success through the years. The technological advantages we have achieved would not have been possible without an educational system which provided young Americans with the necessary training to expand the horizons.

Now we find that our competitors have placed increased emphasis on education. The results are evident in the stiff competition we are facing worldwide. Clearly, this is no time to turn back on our commitment to education in the United States.

In Mississippi we have seen significant progress as a result of the Education Reform Act. This year, we see the results of that landmark legislation in increased school attendance, fewer dropouts, and higher scores for our students.

Recent accomplishments reported by our state's education officials include:

- Mississippi had one of the largest increases in the nation in the average American College Test (ACT) scores this year.
- State education officials report that math and reading skills of elementary students are higher because of teacher assistance and kindergarten programs.
- Teacher salaries, while still low in comparison to most states, increased an average of 6 percent last year.
- Attendance is up in all grades affected by the compulsory attendance law.
- State funding for textbook purchasing increased 300 percent this year after a year of drastic cuts.

The obvious progress in Mississippi's education system is a great encouragement. However, it does not mean that our commitment to education can be relaxed.

On the national level, there are some who would cut our expenditures for education. The Administration's request for education this year reflected a 28 percent reduction from last year's funding. I am adamantly opposed to this recommendation and voiced my opposition during Senate debate on the budget resolution.

The Senate was successful in passing a budget resolution which provides a small increase for education over last year's spending. I will urge my colleagues on the budget conference committee to provide adequate support for education and will work through the appropriations process for education funding.

I have tremendous respect for the teaching profession. My personal appreciation is influenced by my experiences growing up in a family that has produced several educators. These fine individuals deserve our gratitude for the outstanding work they do.

We are now at a critical turning point in rebuilding our education program. The future of education hangs in the balance as funding sources for similar programs become tighter.

I know we are looking for every reasonable way to reduce the federal deficit. I am fully involved in that effort and have been for years now. But we must be sure that we do not neglect our opportunity to invest in young minds — an investment that will surely pay dividends.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—The party primaries are still weeks away, but there was a flurry of activity behind the scenes here last week over the possibility that "crossover" voters from the GOP primary on Aug. 4 may infiltrate the Democratic runoff on Aug. 25 as happened last year in Alabama.

Mississippi Democrats have already begun taking the threat quite seriously, knowing that the 1986 crossover voting fiasco over in Alabama triggered the election of the first Republican governor in that state since Reconstruction.

A week or so ago, the State Democratic Executive committee adopted a resolution declaring that the party intends to bar any voter who participates in the first primary of another party from voting in a Democratic runoff.

The Democratic Party resolution is being sent off to the U.S. Justice Department for pre-clearance under the federal voting rights law in a move to protect the party's flanks if a legal battle later develops over the issue.

What the Democrats are also asking the Justice Department to do is give them access to the voter lists from the Aug. 4 GOP primary so the names of those who participated will be available to Democratic poll officials in the Aug. 25 second primary.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dick Molpus has also gotten into the act. Last week, Molpus asked the state Attorney General's office for an opinion on the crossover voting issue in light of the state's new election reform law.

Molpus' office already has a 1978 opinion by then Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer which held that a second primary is the "continuation" of the same primary election and a person who took part in the first primary of one party could be challenged if he tried to vote in the second primary of the other party.

Apparently a reference in this column recently that State Republican leaders were doing legal research on crossover voting had set off the burst of "footwork" by both the Democrats and the Secretary of State to nip the issue in the bud.

Last year in Alabama, the crossover by some 13,000 voters from the GOP primary in the Democratic gubernatorial runoff was credited with tilting the outcome of the race in favor of conservative Alabama Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick over populist Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley by 8,700 votes.

A federal court later held that Graddick had inspired the crossover in violation of an Alabama election statute pre-cleared by the U.S. Justice Department. The court suggested to the State Democratic Party it should conduct a new runoff, but left it to the party's discretion.

Instead, the state Democratic Executive Committee decided to declare Baxley the party nominee for governor. That triggered such a widespread backlash among Alabama voters that they proceeded in November to elect Guy Hunt, a total unknown who was the Republican nominee, in a landslide over Baxley.

Over here, there are the makings of a similar situation, Mississippi Republicans will hold a rare statewide gubernatorial primary on Aug. 4, the same day as the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

However, with only two candidates in the GOP primary—Doug Lemon and Jack Reed—no runoff will be necessary. On the other hand, it is a certainty that with eight Democrats on the ballot, there will be a Democratic runoff on Aug. 25.

State GOP sources say their initial legal research has turned up case law and some federal precedents that indicate crossover voting is not prohibited in another primary held on a different day.

Ironically, some Mississippi Republicans say they became interested in the subject of crossover because they were worried that the Democrats might launch an invasion of the GOP primary in an attempt to bump Reed, the heavy favorite to win, out of the nomination.

The largest number of votes ever cast in a Republican primary in Mississippi was around 70,000 in the 1978 Senatorial primary between Thad Cochran and Charles Pickering. That, however, was not in a year when local offices such as county supervisor and sheriff were on the election ballot.

Some observers estimate that the Reed-Lemon GOP primary will draw only 30,000 to 40,000 voters, because so many voters won't be inclined to pass up voting in local races where Democrats are the only candidates on the ballot. There will be a few scattered local GOP primaries for legislative seats and some county offices.

You can bet that a lot more will be heard about the crossover voting issue before the year's elections are over.

Land mines considered to keep thieves out of the garden

June 16, 1987
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis
Dear Sir:

Last month my husband and I were delighted to receive the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's "Garden-of-the-Month" award for Bay St. Louis.

Since we built our home in 1984, we have tried to contribute to the beauty of our community and be good neighbors.

It was gratifying to have our efforts recognized by such a fine organization and we heartily thank its members for the honor.

Unfortunately, not all of the attention our garden received has been so welcome. Last week, in broad daylight, two pots of pink geraniums were stolen off of our front porch steps.

This was not the first such incident. Earlier in the spring, a blooming Japanese magnolia tree was pulled up by its roots from our front yard.

We cannot imagine what kind of a low, common sneak would do such a thing. One might expect this in the heart of crime-ridden New Orleans, but surely not in Bay St. Louis.

We are very distressed to think that some mean-spirited person or persons are roaming around our neighborhood, destroying beauty intended for enjoyment of all our citizens.

Another of our neighbors reports having several azalea bushes and fruit trees dug up out of his yard. Are these thieves heisting the plants for their own use and enjoyment in their own gardens? I think not. Rather, they are probably selling them to unsuspecting homeowners as "bargains."

To discourage these thefts, I urge all potential plant buyers to deal only with reputable plant nurseries and landscapers. Ask to see dated receipts for plants purchased on your behalf before paying for them.

Otherwise, that so-called bargain or "great deal" on a tree or bush could be at your neighbor's expense.

Remember, receiving stolen goods is also a crime. Participate in Neighborhood Watch programs and report suspicious activity in your area to the police.

Also, if you are a victim of these "petty" but infuriating crimes, file a report with the local police. The police can't help if they aren't aware of the problem.

Much to our regret, I guess we'll have to put a fence up. What's next? Land mines?

Talk about coincidences - no sooner had Joe Pilet asked me to judge a recipe contest sponsored by the Friendship Oak Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, than I came across a delightful small, paper bound cookbook, "The Early American Cookbook - Authentic Favorites For the Modern Kitchen" which is wonderfully full of tales of food and its preparation from some of our country's colonists and patriots of later times as well.

This small book (Liberty Publishing Company, Cockeysville, Md., $6.95) was written by a Texas husband and wife team, Dr. Kristie Lynn and Robert Wayne Pelton, experts in historical cookery and collectors of old cookbooks.

Recipes for the book are gleaned from our country's earliest cookbooks, from crumbling family manuscripts, from notes in faded writing in notebooks dating back before the American Revolution and the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Other recipes are from later times, the War Between the States, old plantation recipes, early America seen against the background of the cooking pot - remember the old saying that "civilized man cannot live without cooks."

So, I'm well immersed in the cooking of our early Colonial Days just now, and ready to read and "cook up" the recipes submitted - for it's my policy to use at any time only recipes which I've tested out, whether my own concoction, those given to me by friends, or whatever - that way, I don't have to worry about angry readers!

At any rate, Joe asked me to mention the contest in today's column. The contest, by the way, is part of a celebration commemorating the 200th anniversary of the signing of our Federal Constitution, as Joe told me.

All during next week (June 23 through June 27) from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., Dick and Nadine Stamm of Nadic Arts Studio, 111 Main St., Bay St. Louis, will host exhibits, spinning, weaving and other crafts demonstrations, with valuable prizes donated by civic leaders.

So, back to the contest - if you haven't already sent in your recipe - oh, by the way, the contest is open only to senior citizens, Joe advised me - honestly, Joe, we weren't around all that long ago, though my youngest grandson did ask me the other day if I had helped Betsy Ross sew up the flag.

Hurry, hurry - there wasn't too much notice on this for us senior cooks, but, get your recipe to the Nadic Arts Studio, 111 Main St., Bay St. Louis, by this Saturday, June 20, please.

And, for starters for your think-think, the early colonists relied heavily on corn, for instance, as a foodstuff. So, from that delightful book, "The Early American Cookbook" here's:

GREEN CORN PUDDING
SPECIALTY
OF ETHAN ALLEN
12 large ears corn
5 egg yolks, well beaten
2 Tbsp. butter, melted
1 Tbsp. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
4 cups cream or milk
5 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Grate the raw corn from the cobs and place in large wooden mixing bowl. Stir in the custard-like egg yolks and beat all together very hard. Stir in the melted butter, sugar and salt. Gradually add the cream or milk, beating hard all the time.

Lastly, fold in the egg whites and pour into a deep buttered baking dish. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for an hour. Then, take off the cover and bake until the top of the pudding is nicely browned.

In an extra note on this page of the cookbook: Green corn pudding was especially popular in the Colonies before the American Revolution - and Ethan Allen, or course, was the leader of the famed Green Mountain Boys, whose name became a household word when he daringly stormed and captures Fort Ticonderoga in 1775, and forced the commander to surrender "in the name of the Great Jehovah and Continental Congress."

Alabama art association to honor Bay weaver

The Eastern Shore Art Association, Oak Street, Fairhope, will hold a reception from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, June 20, to open the exhibit of Dee Cichon of Bay St. Louis, creator of woven tapestries.

The show takes its theme from earth colors one would encounter in a trip through the Southwest.

Some symbols of the American Indian are used, and the Navaho practice of leaving an opening in the woven work for the spirit to emerge is observed in most pieces.

Dee Cichon attended St. Mary's Dominican College in New Orleans, LA. She went on to complete some graduate work at Newcomb College in New Orleans. After moving to Chicago, she attended the American Academy of Art there.

She has been a teacher of art for the last fifteen years, and is currently the art instructor at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis.

During her college years, she was most inspired by her studies in sculptural work.

However, in recent years, her interest has turned to weaving of tapestries, for through this medium, she is able to combine her love for themes of nature with her quest for three-dimensional interpretation of a theme.

The textural quality of the yarns give an added dimension to the designs and abstract thoughts conjured up by the artist.

A member of the Handweaver's Guild of America, the artist/weaver is also currently associated with a local guild, the Dyed-In-The-Wool Weavers and Spinners.

Having first exhibited her work in a three-artist show with painters Susan Plessala and Ardith Robinson in 1983 at the Biloxi Cultural Center, she delivered a one-artist showing two years later in response to a challenge made by the curator.

Her next showing there in 1988 will include handmade paper collages as a fiber variation.

Two of the artist's works were accepted for the juried biennial show, Mississippi Weaves, held in Jackson during July, 1986.

The public is invited to attend the show and meet the artist.

Sheriff's deputy seeks West constable post

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Nathan "Corky" Hoda Jr. has announced his candidacy for the position of constable, West District.

Hoda, 26, is a native and lifelong resident of Hancock County.

He is the son of Carolyn Faye Hoda and Nathan Hoda Sr. of the Texas Flat Road in The Kiln.

He has served both full time and part time with the sheriff's department for five years and in addition has worked with Diamondhead security service as well as the Diamondhead and Kiln Fire Departments.

He is a trained emergency medical technician first responder.

He also has completed several professional law enforcement seminars, including sessions on burglary investigation, accident investigation, fingerprinting, and radiological monitoring.

Firefighting training completed by the candidate include arson investigation, Jaws of Life certification, and basic firefighting.

Hoda is a resident of Texas Flat Road, a graduate of Hancock North Central High School and Pearl River Junior College. He also attended Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College at the Jeff Davis campus in Biloxi.

He is a master Mason in Bay St. Louis Lodge No. 429, F&AM.

"I feel my extensive training and experience as a law enforcement officer and firefighter in Hancock County leaves me well qualified to serve the citizens of the county as constable," Hoda said.

"As a deputy I have worked closely with the county's Justice Court personnel and as constable will be in a position to provide valuable service to the court as well as the sheriff's department," Hoda continued.

"I appreciate your support during this campaign and humbly ask for your vote in the August 4 Democratic Primary Election," Hoda stated.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

Every year in Mississippi, especially from the early spring to late fall months, we have had an outbreak of Sleeping Sickness (Equine Encephalomyelitis) in our horse population.

Sleeping Sickness is a viral disease that infects horses and is usually fatal. The disease can be prevented and controlled by vaccination.

In the United States, the two most common forms are Eastern Equine Encephalomyelitis (EEE), the form more often fatal, and Western Equine Encephalomyelitis (WEE). Either form may leave the animal useless due to permanent brain damage.

The virus is transmitted to a susceptible animal by biting insects usually mosquitoes. Equine Encephalomyelitis is a public health hazard as it can be transmitted to humans.

Jones

Diboll, speaking as an individual board member and not as president of the group, said she hoped some good in addition to the teacher's reinstatement would result from the hearing.

"I would like to let this serve as a lesson to the school board, teachers, administrators and the patrons of our community, that we must talk. We must work together," Diboll said, adding that the hearing for Jones was another incident stressing that "the children must come first."

In the past when the board has done something the public did not like, board members have been harassed or threatened, Diboll said, explaining that Jones' supporters did not apply that type of pressure.

"I would like to thank the concerned band parents and people involved for not calling to threaten us or trying to intimidate us. In other words, they never tried to force our decision," the board member said.

Mrs. Jones never contacted us to seek favorable treatment and I feel that showed a lot of character on her part."

She also said she was pleased with reports regarding Jones' conduct on the last day of the school year.

"She was in there cleaning up her classroom, getting things organized and doing a lot of things other people wouldn't have done," Diboll stated.

"After hearing her testimony, I realized that this lady is something special because she cares more for her students than what the public thinks about her. Her students and their parents showed a lot of loyalty and respect for her and we're fortunate to have a lady of her character serving in our district."

Diboll added that she liked Jones' response when the band director was asked if, given the same circumstances, she would have allowed her students to sit down during a break in a parade.

Testimony at the first part of the hearing had shown that Jones' nonreemployment had been largely based upon an alleged incident during the 1987 Krewe of Triton Mardi Gras parade, in which the band director allegedly allowed her students to sit and lie down on the US-90 pavement during a long break in the parade.

Jones had replied that given the same set of circumstances, including the use of junior high students in the parade and having marched in the earlier Krewe of Real People parade the same day, she would have allowed the students to rest again.

"She was really risking her job there, but when she said that she impressed me with the fact that she cares about her students," Diboll said.

Diboll also stated that she feels that the board has proven it can make a fair and impartial decision" after hearing new information.

She also said she believes that none of the board members knew all of the facts about the Jones case before the decision was made.

She added that what happened will change the way the board handles nonreemployment matters.

"I will take the lead myself and see that everything that can possibly be done to keep this from happening again will be done," Diboll said.

However, she said that she is wary of enacting personnel policy so strict they interfere with the functions of the employees, and that the board should provide "advice and leadership where appropriate."

TUESDAY'S TESTIMONY

The first witness Tuesday night, called by Deakle, was John Wilkerson, a member of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 and a Bay St. Louis City Councilman.

Testifying in the school library, because the crowd was too large for the board's regular meeting room, Wilkerson said he had been upset by the band's behavior at a Veteran's Day parade in November 1985 and that the matter had been brought up at a legion meeting.

The allegations came from a letter written by Wilkerson's wife to the school board, which had been discussed during the first part of the hearing.

Her letter, authorized by the legion's auxiliary post, had alleged that the Bay High band members were lying down on the ground, "making fun of the speaker," and destroying small American flags they had been given during the speeches at a ceremony at the end of the parade.

"In 30 years of conducting veteran's programs, I have never seen, from the Bay High band or any other band, that type of conduct. That's why it was such a shock to me," said the witness, who had been master of ceremonies at the event.

He said he had never spoken to Jones personally about the incident and felt the other teachers who were chaperones were also responsible for the students' behavior.

Wilkerson contended that at the time he felt Jones should have been reprimanded but that he had never "demanded anybody's job."

He also testified about his role in the appointment of Benvenuti, the only board member named by the present city administration.

Benvenuti, he said, was one of two people he felt were good board candidates on a list Mayor Victor Franciewicz Jr. provided for him. Wilkerson had voted with the rest of the council in giving final approval to Benvenuti's appointment.

He said he had known Benvenuti since the board member was a child but "we do not travel in the same circles" and that he never discussed Jones or the band's behavior with him.

In response to a cross-examination question from the board's attorney, Lucien Gex, Wilkerson said he was not aware that Benvenuti had witnessed the alleged incident involving the band at the Triton parade.

PROFESSIONAL OPINIONS

The second witness Deakle called Tuesday was Archie Rawls, band director for Pearl River Junior College.

Rawls said he had known Jones since the two were in high school and has worked with the Bay High band in summer band camps for the past two years.

His band participated in the Triton parade, but his students were not allowed to sit. However, he said they marched only one parade that day and would have been allowed to sit "if they showed excessive fatigue or there was a long break in the parade."

He stated that he feels "it is the band director's responsibility, first and foremost, to protect the welfare of the students" and that in his professional opinion what Jones had done "was the right thing to do at that point."

Rawls said the 4.5 mile Triton is not only a lengthy parade but includes an excessive number of stops, which is where students will show the most health-related problems, as opposed to shorter parades or parades of comparable length that keep moving.

"I felt it was too much to ask under those circumstances," he stated, adding that he realized the Bay High band included junior high students.

He said he had allowed individual students in his own band, which consists of college-age students, to drop out of parades and that on one occasion allowed the entire band, which includes 100 to 110 people, to sit on the curb.

He also indicated that Bay High had begun participating in the junior college-sponsored band camp after a two-year absence when Jones took over and has shown steady improvement.

Rawls also testified that he was aware that Bay High failed to participate as scheduled in the 1986 Triton parade and said he understood that a number of students had become ill after marching in Krewe of Real People earlier that day.

PARENTS TESTIFY

Band parent and booster club member Gwen Marquar testified next, telling the board that she had observed that her daughter and other students have learned to read music since Jones took over Bay High's band program at the beginning of the 1985-86 school year.

She said her own child "hardly fooled with her clarinet" before Jones became director but was now practicing more at home and had asked to be taught to play a keyboard.

Marquar also said she accompanied the band to the annual state band festival where "Lana was the only one who found a room to put the band in until the performance, and it was cold that day" and where the band's behavior received compliments from restaurant personnel and a charter bus driver.

She said she was not present when the veteran's parade incident occurred.

Alice Ray, mother of a 16-year-old band member, said Jones had ordered students to stop using the obscene language they had used in previous years.

Ray had been present at the veteran's parade and said she had not witnessed any students tearing up flags or making fun of the speaker, although some students left undamaged flags on the ground. She said she and the other chaperones picked the flags up and "they weren't destroyed."

She said the parade route was about 10 blocks and that once the students arrived at Bay St. Louis City hall where the ceremony took place, they were given a spot to stand where they were in full sunlight.

"They didn't lie down. They sat down," she said, adding that she had seen some student place flags in their hats at the junior high school, where they received them from legion auxiliary members.

Ray said she was not at the 1987 Triton parade, but "my daughter could hardly raise her arms, and she was just carrying a flag. That's nothing compared to the instruments."

She also stated in response to a question from Gex that she knew that "four or five" members of the band boosters did not approve of Jones.

Diane Major, another band student's mother, said her son has made the Lions All-State Band, an honors group based on competitive try-outs, both years Jones has been his director.

Major was at the veteran's parade and contended that she did not see any evidence of band members behaving in the manner alleged by Wilkerson.

She said she was not at the Triton parade in question but would have been upset had tired students not been given time to rest. She also stated that she had marched the two Mardi Gras parade routes herself and considered them "too much for anybody, especially junior high kids."

She added that she had complained to former Superintendent of Education J.D. McCulloch about the length of the route.

CAMERON SPEAKS

Bay Junior High Principal W.J. Cameron stated in his testimony Tuesday that although Jones is technically under the supervision of High School Principal Frank Ladner, she comes to him with problems involving junior high students or emergencies because the band hall is located in the junior high building.

He gave short yes and no answers to the attorneys, indicating that he felt Jones has been a good teacher and disciplinarian and that he had witnessed no misconduct on her part.

In addition, he said he had only received two complaints from parents and both had been during her first year with the Bay-Waveland district.

He also stated that band parents tend to be more vocal than other groups over problems affecting their children.

Deakle asked him if he remembered a complaint involving a tuba player who suffered from asthma, and Cameron said he did.

A STUDENT TESTIFIES

Thad McIntyre, a high school student who serves as the band's student conductor, was the first of two students to testify Tuesday.

Called by Deakle, McIntyre said that the quality of the band had "fallen down" before Jones took over and that discipline at that point was "horrible."

He described the events on the day of the two 1987 Mardi Gras parades, stating that the band had formed for the first at about 8:30 a.m. and finished "right around lunch time," then went to Burger King for a lunch break he estimated at no more than 25 minutes long.

The student said the incident in which the band allegedly lay down on the pavement was more than halfway through the second parade and that the students sat rather than lay on the street and curbs.

He said the reason for doing so was "exhaustion."

"One of the trumpet players in particular said he was getting dizzy and I remember Mrs. Jones told him he could drop out."

"I think it's ridiculous to have to march two parades in one day," McIntyre added.

He said more than half the band at that point consisted of eighth grade students.

He said the band did not participate in Triton the previous year, when the parade date coincided with unusually cold weather.

He added that he had become ill after marching in the first parade.

The student explained that the band had "just enough instrumentation" to reconsider an earlier decision by Jones and march in the Real People parade, with only 30 to 35 students.

After a 90-minute break in which the students were allowed to go home for lunch, only a few boarded the bus to go to Triton and that appearance was cancelled.

He said not many students had quit the band after Jones took over, except "maybe one or two who were stubborn and wouldn't do it any other way except the old way."

McIntyre described the veteran's day parade, saying the Bay students were sitting rather than lying down and that the other two bands "were under big oak trees. They had no need."

He said the speaker had already started when the band was allowed to sit.

The flags were not distributed at the ceremony but rather at the junior high, where they were put into coat pockets or given to chaperones after Jones gave the students orders to remove the flags from their hats.

"The ladies who handed them out were wearing them in their hats and some of the band members found that amusing, so they did it too," McIntyre stated.

In response to questions from Gex, he said that before Jones took over as director a pick-up truck with water bottles followed the band at parades and that most of the time Jones provided water carried by seventh and eighth grade students called runners, but there was no water provided at the 1987 Triton parade.

He also testified that Jones was such a strict disciplinarian that some students had quit, but he could not provide specific reasons, and that "if there's cutting up in the band, she can just look over there and they know they're doing wrong."

SUBSTITUTE TESTIFIES

The board next heard testimony from Gary Adam, whose name had come up during the first part of the hearing when board members were asked if they were aware that he had applied for the Bay-Waveland band director's job.

Tuesday's testimony established that Adam had actually applied before the decision not to reemploy Jones and that he had applied after Jones sent him an invitation to do so through his mother, a school employee.

Adam said that occurred in mid-March, when Jones told him she was contemplating leaving the district.

Adam explained that he is a former member of the Bay High band and had visited rehearsal under the previous director, where he had found "discipline was very lax."

He knew Jones prior to when she came to Bay High because she had been dean of women for annual summer band camps at University of Southern Mississippi, where he had been a student.

He had also served as one of her substitute teachers and said the discipline she incorporated into her band program was similar to that used in the program when he was a student and when the band had scored high in state competition.

"I think the achievements of the band speak for themselves," he said.

Adam also stated that he had never contacted board members about a band directors job and that to his knowledge his mother never did so, although he once telephoned Ladner to find out if he needed to send any more information after he had applied.

Carl Banderet, grandfather of Carl Major, testified briefly about how difficult marching in hot sun can be based on his experiences in the Bay Municipal Band, and praised Jones on her abilities as a director.

JONES TELLS HER SIDE

Deakle's last witness was Jones herself, who said she has a master's degree in music education, an additional certification in vocal music and 17 years of experience directing high school and junior high bands.

She testified that the day she arrived at Bay St. Louis to sign her 1985-86 contract, 17 students were waiting for her on the practice field. The band program has now grown to 44 students and about 60 are enrolled for next year.

She stated that she found a few students could play exceptionally well when she arrived but that the group as a whole "lacked the basic fundamentals of music."

"My first year I had to do lots of teaching by rote, singing the parts with them and teaching them to finger basic notes," the director explained.

She said she had attempted to see the board about the veteran's parade incident after having been contacted by a newspaper reporter for her answers to an anonymous letter regarding the band's behavior.

She said two administrators came to her in the waiting area of the boardroom that night and told her "the matter had been settled and I could go home."

She said she had never received any reprimand from the board or administrators on that matter or the allegations about the Triton parade.

She said that with a letter of nonreemployment that it would probably be impossible for her to get another job except at a school with a very small program, although in all the schools where she has taught in the past band programs have grown and improved state competition ratings.

Jones also remembered the incident involving the student with asthma, stating that the tuba player had been scheduled to attend a weekend clinic, then march in a Sunday parade.

She said she became concerned about the student's health when he told her that his doctor had approved his attendance at the clinic but that he would be "too sick to march in the parade" and did not want to take him out of town.

She also said that the decision not to go to the clinic was ultimately his own, although Cameron was consulted at his request.

Jones subsequently told the student he could not march in the parade when he showed up that day and asked to participate as a drummer. He subsequently left the band program and took a year of private drum lessons.

She reinstated him this year as a drummer after consulting with Cameron.

"He has been a good band student this year," she said.

Jones described the day of the Mardi Gras parades, saying, "it was just rush, rush between parades. The students shoved down a hamburger, got on the bus and started marching again."

She said delays in Real People caused by continued breakdowns of a motorized entry, delayed the parade, cutting a planned lunch break so short that the only reason the band made it into Triton was the bus driver's expertise and a few minutes delay in starting.

She said the alleged "lying down" incident described by Benvenuti during the first part of the hearing as being the reason for her nonreemployment occurred during a long stop in the last leg of the Triton parade.

Jones had stepped up two or three units, still in plain sight of her band, to speak to the Pass Christian band director and saw her students begin to seat themselves on their own.

She said some were sunburned while others appeared pale, and she heard various complaints about pain as she walked through the band's ranks.

"I stepped over to one of the chaperones and said, 'I know this looks bad but I don't have the heart to tell them to get up as tired as they are,'" the band director said.

"I even thought of the school board, wondering what you would think if one of those children passed out and hit his head on the concrete."

She explained one of Benvenuti's remarks, a statement that she had "put her nose in the air," by stating that she had had facial reconstruction surgery in December and was still coping with its effects, including a problem with sinus drainage.

She said she, not the student conductor as Benvenuti alleged, decided when and where to let the band play and based the decision on a number of factors, including crowd density and the stamina of the horn players' facial muscles.

At the veteran's parade, she said her students were the last marching unit, arrived when the speaker had already started and had been positioned "in full glare of the sun."

She said she heard no catcalls or remarks about the speaker nor saw flags destroyed, and allowed the students to sit because they were getting "hot and restless."

"The speeches were good but a little lengthy for a junior high attention span," Jones said.

"I know the importance of public relations. I realize that thoroughly, but my direct concern is the welfare of my students, both physically and musically," the director said in response to questions about her contention that two parades in one day were too much.

In addition, she said it has always been her policy to involve junior high students in a minimum of marching based on educational reasons.

Her testimony regarding nonparticipation in the 1986 Triton parade coincided with McIntyre's and revealed that Ladner had told her to use her own judgement regarding the unseasonably cold weather.

She added that she was told by a number of students that their parents kept them from marching on such a cold day and did not penalize those who failed to show up, instead rewarding those who did. She now uses a reward system rather than a disciplinary penalty as an incentive for parade participation anyway, Jones added.

In response to a question from Gex, she said she had told students who dropped out of band that they could not rejoin, and had been asked to write a memo on that policy just last week.

She said she took such action because band is a comprehensive program and because she had never been told she could not do so.

She also said she felt letting the students sit was appropriate and would do so again under the same circumstances.

GEX'S WITNESSES

Gex called only two witnesses, student Jim Moore and Benvenuti.

Moore testified that he was the student who had been allowed to rejoin the band after switching from tuba to snare drum.

He said he did see students sitting and lying down at the veteran's parade and that he had seen Jones take a flag from a student's hat and order the others to put the flags away before the parade.

He said there was a lot of talking during the speeches.

He also testified that the students had about 45 minutes to an hour to eat between the Mardi Gras parades and sat during more than three stops in Triton.

He also discussed the incident about the clinic, saying he did not go because "I felt like Mrs. Jones was mad at me and I didn't like the tension in the air."

Deakle's questioning revealed that Moore had been reinstated after his mother wrote to Superintendent of Education Roger Oge, who he said had advised her to take the matter to Benvenuti or Penrose.

Moore said he was then referred to Gex, with whom he discussed his testimony once in the attorney's office and again a school hallway Tuesday night.

The student also stated that he felt it would have been all right medically for him to participate in the clinic because there was no marching, then for him to march in the parade if he played a drum rather than the tuba.

He became angry and quit when he was told he could not switch instruments, but rejoined the band several weeks ago because he likes music.

Moore also stated in response to Deakle's questioning that he would "probably prefer another band director" next year and did not like Jones as a director.

Benvenuti's testimony was mostly limited to a description of the length of parade routes, which he determined by using his car at Gex's request.

He also stated he felt Jones should give the board some kind of assurance there would not be any further incidents of the type he testified he saw at Triton.

"I know what I saw and I'm very disturbed when I sit here and hear testimony that it didn't happen. I'm very concerned about the discrepancies in the testimony," the board member said.

Local architect protests

County school board employs Jackson firm for building program design

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Accepting the "lowest and best" price quoted by architectural firms for a $8.6 million building program, the Hancock County School Board unanimously voted in favor of Thompsons and Associates of Jackson.

"I would have liked to be able to award the project to a local firm but I cannot justify spending more of the public's money than necessary," said Frank Miller, board president.

"There is a $40,000 difference between the Thompsons bid and the next to lowest bid," he added.

The bids ranged from the 5.25 percent submitted by the Thompsons firm to six percent.

In addition to Thompsons, the bidders included J. Mykolyk and Associates of Pass Christian; Leonard A. Collins of Biloxi; Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis; Eskew, Vogt, Salvato and Filson of New Orleans and Biloxi; and Architectural Production Services of Bay St. Louis.

Bay St. Louis resident Jules Legard, representing the firm of Eskew, Vogt, Salvato and Filson, protested the awarding of the bid to a firm outside the area without conducting interviews.

"Your acceptance of the firm selected tonight based on 5.25 percent (fee schedule) without considering a firm's qualifications, travel expenses, engineers and ability to coordinate the work locally is unbelievable," he said.

"You have shut out local participation by people who have lived here either all or part of their lives," he said.

"It is unfortunate that tonight's action by this board has again promoted the concept that you're born here, educate yourself and must move away from your community because the community will not hire its young," Legard added.

Miller replied the board had stated interviews may be conducted but after an extensive review of proposals, Thompsons' qualifications and fee schedule made them the lowest and best bidder.

Thompsons listed several school building projects they have completed including William Carey College dormitories, administration building and classroom building in Gulfport, George County School classroom additions, North Jackson Elementary School, Whitfield Junior High School and Milan High School in Tupelo.

In other business the board:

- Approved a recommendation to employ Cindy L. Williams as special education teacher at Hancock North Central Elementary School for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Robert Edwin Clary as elementary teacher at Gulfview Elementary School for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Beth W. Bryan as elementary teacher at Hancock North Central Elementary for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Mary Jane Lizana as elementary teacher at Hancock North Central for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Marta Cameron, Charles Rollison, Rose Acker, Melvin Bosarge and Melinda Toomey as instructors for the make-up school during the month of June.

- Approved a recommendation to employ Dennis Peterson at Hancock North Central on summer maintenance for two weeks.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Loraine Necaise as teacher assistant at Hancock North Central Elementary for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a recommendation to employ Philippe R. Lemoine as bus driver for Route 21 (BaySide Park) for the district for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a request that Hancock County School participate with the Pass Christian School District in a Consortium for Handicapped Children (Special Education) at a cost of $10,392 for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved the 1988 project application for special education excess cost funds for the Hancock County School District.

- Authorized an advertisement for bids for property insurance for the school district for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a request to employ Marvin LaCoste for air conditioning work at Hancock North Central in the amount of $1,485, the lowest price of two bids.
- Approved a request to purchase a microcomputer for the accounting office for payroll reporting as a single source item in the amount of $2,914.
- Approved a request for funds from the Accident Contingency Fund for payment to medical related agencies for Jeffrey Hoda in the amount of $8,368 for medical attention resulting from a fall from a school bus.
- Approved a request to pay Mississippi School Boards Association dues of $1,164 for the 1987-88 school year.
- Approved a request to lease one acre in Section 16-6-14 to LaDonna Whitfield as a residential lease for 25 years at $144 per year.

Stolen boat returned after a few hours

A 14-foot aluminum hull boat, stolen Tuesday morning, was recovered later that day by Bay St. Louis police officers.

Detective Chuck James said the boat was reported stolen from the American Legion Pier about 10:30 a.m. by owner William J. Overall Jr. of Bay St. Louis.

The boat is valued at $200.

According to James, Overall left the boat at the pier because of the bad weather and when he returned the boat was gone.

Bay police officers discovered the boat about 2:30 p.m. in another area of the pier.

"Whoever who took the boat must have decided to bring it back," James said.

No arrests have been made.

SAFER HIGHWAYS—Patrolman Michael Prendergast, center, of the Waveland Police Department was honored at a recent luncheon as a member of the 100 Club for 1986. Club members help make Mississippi roads and highways safer by issuing at least 100 driving under the influence (DUI) citations during the year. Prendergast, who issued 110 citations, was congratulated by Roy Thigpen, right, executive director of the governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, and Billy Terrell, interim director of Federal-State Programs' Department of Criminal Justice Planning (DCJP). The Highway Safety Division of DCJP sponsors the 100 Club.

Supervisors encounter opposition on sewer commission appointment

BY DENA BISNETTE
Despite objections from a group of Garden Isle residents, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has appointed four of five commissioners for the recently formed Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1.

However, the board received no objections Monday when it accepted a petition presented by Beat Four Supervisor Sam Pernicario and signed by about 25 property owners, who requested that a section of Beat Four be added to the district.

The expansion includes a section of property along Longfellow Road between Highway 603 and Waveland, and will go as far as Four Dollar Bayou at the upper end of Bayou LaCroz, near Bayou Phillip Road.

According to Lucien Cex, attorney for the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, the board must advertise its intent to amend the existing county district, which was created about a month ago. A public hearing regarding the amendment has been set for 10 a.m. July 13 at the Hancock County Courthouse.

Any protest of the expansion must contain the signatures of 150 or 20 percent of the property owners from the area to be included, whichever is less, Cex explained.

The existing district is located entirely in Beat Five between the northern boundaries of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Jordan River.

The county district will serve primarily as a user fee collection agency and will enter a contract with the regional district for sewage treatment.

Through a regional district improvement project currently under way, the county will have assistance from state and federal funds for construction of a collection system.

The board allowed Pernicario to delay his appointment of a district commissioner until after the July 13 public hearing.

However, previous instructions from Gex had indicated that the other four commissioners had to be appointed Monday.

"As long as you have a quorum, there should not be any problems," the attorney told the supervisors.

Beat Five Supervisor James Travica recommended appointment of Byron W. Ruffin for a five-year term.

Because he could not find anyone in his district who fit the qualifications as described by Gex, Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar turned his appointment over to Travica, who recommended Richard Brehm.

According to Gex, the law states that the commissioners must reside, operate a business or own property in the district. However, the supervisors said when they originally delayed the appointments until Monday that each would try to appoint someone who lived in his own beat and who he felt would be qualified.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Cour-rege recommended Ellis Cuevas for a three-year term and Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner recommended John Genin, who meets the qualifications but is also an attorney, for a two-year term.

Genin was named temporary chairman and Cuevas was designated as temporary secretary.

Brehm was originally the four-year appointee but his term was reduced to one year after a group of Garden Isle residents apparently led by Elroy Schwebel objected to his appointment.

The commissioner Pernicario will appoint later will have the four-year term.

According to Schwebel and a Shoreline Park resident, Malcolm Tullier, the people in Garden Isle want Mike Anthony appointed instead of Brehm.

Tullier defended Anthony's qualifications by stating that Anthony has been involved in the regional district's project since it began about a decade ago.

Anthony said he feels qualified both because he has a background in public health and safety and because of his long-standing involvement in the regional project.

Travica, however, repeated earlier statements that he would not recommend Anthony's appointment because Anthony is one of his opponents in the Beat Five supervisor's race this year, calling it "a conflict of interest."

Anthony is running as an independent. He would have to resign as a commissioner if he were appointed and then elected as supervisor.

Travica said he would consider appointing Anthony later if Anthony does not beat him in the election. Kellar also said that he would consider appointing Anthony when Brehm's term is up.

Schwebel said he felt that Travica was appointing Brehm simply because the appointee is related to a former member of the New Orleans, La., water and sewerage board.

Representative Tate seeks move to Senate

Representative Margaret "Wootsie" Tate has announced her candidacy for the Senate seat in District 47 which includes Letchworth and Crane Creek.

She presently serves as the state representative, District 108.

Tate holds an associate degree from Pearl River Junior College and is a student at the University of Southern Mississippi.

She is an independent insurance agent, realtor, a home builder, member of Pearl River County Realtors, Chamber of Commerce, Pearl River Crusade chairman for the Cancer Society, associate member of the Jaycees, member of the Blueberry Council, past president of Pearl River County Homebuilders, member of Pearl River County Democratic Executive Committee, State Democratic Committee, Council of State Legislators and Mississippi legislative membership chairman of The American Legislative Exchange Council.

During her tenure in the House of Representatives she has served on the Conservation and Water Resource Committee as well as the Fees and Salaries of Public Officials, Insurance and Labor Committee.

"Insurance issues have been among my top priorities. I have fought for rural fire insurance markets with the resulting rural risk pool to be in effect in July of this year; the windpool for the lower six counties of the state to assure that wind coverage will continue to be available; advancement of rural fire protection and current ISO standards," Tate said.

"I have led the battle for the restoration of the flows and correction of the diversions on the lower Pearl River; strongly opposed south Mississippi becoming a dumping ground for nuclear waste; preservation and control of ground water; and acceptance of individual wastewater treatment plants for homeowners," she continued.

"In education I have supported kindergarten, the Uniform School Law, Educational Trust Fund, and raising the compulsory attendance age; strongly supported the increased teachers' salaries and support health insurance for teachers," the candidate added.

"Economic development issues pool owners who must have such a fence installed.

"This height will at least prevent small children and others from accidentally wandering into a swimming pool," he said.

The ordinance requires a fence to be installed with initial construction for all new pools and existing pools must be fenced by Dec. 31.

The ordinance will go into effect in 30 days.

Also during the meeting the council authorized Frankiewicz to work with the Governor's Highway Safety program to get a two-part grant for a city-wide traffic sign replacement program.

"We have been assured the first part of the grant which will include an engineering study of the city's road system," Frankiewicz said.

After this study is made, recommendations for changes will be made which will enable the city's traffic signs to conform with the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices published by the Department of Transportation, he said.

"Recommendations may be made for additional four-way stop intersections and some existing ones may be changed, some stop signs may be changed to yield signs and some yield signs changed to stop signs," Frankiewicz added.

The second portion of the grant is to replace all the signs. This portion of the grant will be in the $17,000-$18,000 range and the city is "very, very likely" to be awarded this part, he said.

"Frankiewicz also reported funding for a Shorefront Access Grant through the Bureau of Marine Resources to construct a small park at Ulman Avenue should be available in October.

He told the council the grant had not been funded in the first round but will most likely be given in the fiscal 1988 round of funds distribution.

The park will be constructed below the current public pier and include access steps, parking and lighting improvements.

Frankiewicz also said the project will help stabilize the shoreline in the area which is seriously eroding.

In status reports on projects currently underway in the city, Frankiewicz told the council the casing is now being installed for the new water well on Ioor Street right-of-way.

"We were fortunate to hit very good water-bearing sand area at 1,117 feet which has the ability to produce twice the amount of water we need," he said.

Frankiewicz also reported a Carroll Avenue sewer break has been repaired with the replacement of approximately 60-feet of new pipeline.

To combat the problem caused by the running sand in the area of the line, the boards used to shore up the sides of the excavation area while the work was being done were left in the ground, he said.

The city is also receiving information to re-line the rest of the pipe in the area through a new process to stabilize the rest of the line in the area with running sand.

The council took under advisement a utility ordinance which includes the new rate structure, connection fees, tap fees and miscellaneous items in the utility department.

that I have supported are the Homeport, The Farm Reform Act, Economic Development Bond Programs; I offered the proposal and handled the legislation for the Technology Transfer Center legislation in the House," Tate stated.

"Other areas of interest are hunter education, highway safety, issues for the elderly and infant mortality," she added.

"I have worked diligently for change in the rules that regulate the workings of the House. I served on the steering committee that put the proposed rules together and worked hard for their passage. I am one of the 'Original 26,'" Tate said.

"My proven performance well qualifies me to ask the voters of Senate District 47 to allow me to serve in their Senate seat," she feels.

"I humbly solicit your vote for this position," Tate asks.

The abandoned car had become bogged down in mud at the blue hole, according to Hancock Chief Deputy Alvin Ladner, and evidence indicates local persons may have attempted to assist the driver to free the car.

The car carried rear bumper stickers reading "Born Horny," "Looking For Love, Settling For Sex," and "S... Happens."

The car also bears a "Cumberland State University" rear window sticker.

"The person or persons who attempted to pull the car out of the bog may have seen this suspect," Ladner noted.

DAR chapter slates observances of U.S Constitution Bicentennial

I Pledge Allegiance
To the Flag of the United States of America
And to the Republic
For Which It Stands,
One Nation Under God, Indivisible,
With Liberty and Justice
For All.

Several contests sponsored by the Friendship Oak Chapter were designed to symbolize conditions and life styles in our nation in the early days following the signing of the Constitution. Valuable prizes have been donated by community leaders. Qualified judges will announce winners. The judges include:

Demonstrations of early American crafts are planned, including:

Marilyn Bailey of Waveland exhibits Hearts Quilt

Beverly Rooks of Kiln who attended basket weaving classes in Woodbridge, Va. will demonstrate basket weaving. She is former owner of The Basket Tree.

A Message from the Daughters:

The signers of the United States Constitution displayed a great deal of physical, mental and emotional endurance during that long hot summer 200 years ago when they met in Philadelphia and wrestled with the many problems faced in creating a document designed to form a government that would assure 'liberty and justice for all.'

They sought Divine guidance and must have received it, for this printed charter is unique and has served to guide our nation through wars, depressions and prosperity.

It is flexible and elastic in design and a model for countries wishing to establish a democratic form of government.

It is both fitting and proper for our citizenry to review the text and offer a silent prayer of praise in memory of the dedicated men whose signatures appear on the document dated September 17, 1787.

The Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR takes pleasure in sponsoring this local celebration. The national society had its beginning Oct. 11, 1890 and now has about 200,000 active members.

Our main objectives are three: patriotism, education and history. The DAR initiated American History Month and Constitution Week as special observances.

We recognize the support given us by this community. May God bless you.

As regent of the Friendship Oak Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution I speak in behalf of our membership composed of residents of Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Diamondhead, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport and Biloxi.

We feel that our sponsorship of 'The Pages from the Past' is a fitting way to honor our community as well as to fulfill our objectives which are three: (1) to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence; (2) To promote the general diffusion of knowledge and enlighten public opinion; and (3) to foster true patriotism and love of our country and to aid in securing and maintaining for all mankind all the blessings of liberty.

We realize that these objectives can only be reached through the cooperation of our citizens and we are ever grateful for your loyalty and support.

WRITING THE CONSTITUTION

Franklin, at eighty-one, was the oldest delegate at the Constitutional Convention. He helped break a deadlock in the convention by backing a plan that would create a Senate, in which each state would have two members, and a House of Representatives, in which membership would be based on population. The government of the United States is, of course, still structured in the same way. Even at his advanced age, Franklin made an important contribution to the start of the new nation.

Spell, a native of Savannah, Ga., attended Picayune High School where he was a three-year letterman in basketball.

In his senior year he was chosen to play in the Mississippi Association of Coaches High School All-Star Game in Jackson. He attended Pearl River Junior College on a basketball scholarship, and he later graduated from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1972 with a degree in physical education.

He earned a master's degree at USM in 1977 in physical education and athletic administration and this August he will complete requirements for certification in educational administration.

His teaching and coaching career includes two years at Pearl River Central High School, 1972-74; four years at Newton High School, 1974-78 as head basketball and baseball coach; and five years as head basketball coach at Bay Senior High School, 1978-83.

He began teaching and coaching at St. Stanislaus in 1983.

Spell and his wife Gay have three children, Lane, Jamie and Jay. They live in Bay St. Louis.

"I am extremely grateful to St. Stanislaus for the opportunity to serve as athletic director. I am looking forward to working with Ken Lyons and assisting him in building a quality football program at St. Stanislaus. Lyons brings to our program knowledge and experience which will blend well with those of current staff members Rod Herring and Larry Ramsey," Spell added.

Lyons, a native of Gulfport, graduated from Gulfport High School in 1964.

He earned both his bachelor's degree in physical education and his master's degree in secondary education from the University of Southern Mississippi.

His teaching and coaching experience includes assistant coach at St. John High School (1969-60); assistant coach at Gulfport East Junior High (1960-61); head coach in charge of football and track at East Junior High of Gulfport; head coach and athletic director at Franklinton High School in Louisiana (1973-78); head coach and athletic director at Salmen High School in Slidell, La. (1978-82); head football coach at Ocean Springs High School (1982-84); and for the past three years he has coached at Riverside Academy in Reserve, La.

His football achievements include being named "Coach of the Year" in 1969, 1970 and 1971 while at Pass Christian and his 1969 team was conference co-champions; he was District 8-AAA "Coach of the Year" in 1973 and 1976 while at Franklinton

High School, and his teams there reached the state semi-finals in 1974, were District 8-AAA runner up in 1975 and state runner up in 1976.

His team at Salmen High School was District 8-AAA champion in 1977 and 1978.

For the past three years his teams at Riverside Academy were state champions.

In 1981 he published a book entitled

LARRY RAMSEY

ed "Coach's Guide to Winning Slot-1 Football."

Lyons and his wife Brenda live in Ocean Springs, and they have four children.

He will assume his duties at St. Stanislaus on July 1.

Ramsey graduated from St. Martin High School in 1976. While in high school he was a member of the varsity football and track teams. He was a defensive back on the 1976 team that won the Bay St. Louis Jaycee Bowl. He was also a member of the track team that was the Pascagoula River Conference champions for three years; and he was named an "Athlete of the Year" by Coach and Athlete Magazine for his participation in track and field.

He graduated from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1981 with a degree in health and physical education with a minor in business administration.

While in college he was named to the President's List, the Dean's List, and was a charter member of the Sigma Chi national fraternity.

His teaching and coaching experience includes two years at D'Arville High School as an assistant football coach and junior high track coach.

USM Baseball Team ends banner season

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi recently wrapped up its best baseball season ever, finishing with a 37-25 record and tied for third place in the Metro Conference Tournament.

"We obviously are never satisfied with our progress," said head coach Hill Denson. "But we continue to make strides both in scheduling the calibre of teams we want to play and in our ability to compete successfully against an increasingly strong schedule. We have only four seniors on this team and can look forward to being even better next season. We may not be getting where we want to be as fast as we would like, but we are getting there."

"We've made progress every year, and I see that progress continuing. We very much need to get lights on our field which would help increase our attendance, and we still haven't reached our goal of winning 40 games in a season but we came total came against some of the best opposition available and included games against several teams selected to play in the NCAA tournament. The Eagles beat Florida State, Southern University, South Alabama, Mississippi State, Tulane, UNO and North Carolina State, all teams headed for NCAA action.

Coach Denson's Eagles also spread their games around, playing against teams from no fewer than eight conferences including the Metro, SEC, Sun Belt, PAC-10, ACC, SWAC, Trans-America, Southern and some of the top independents in Tulane and UNO.

USM also played five teams that were ranked nationally during the season, including a victory over Florida State when the Seminoles were the top ranked team in the country.

The Golden Eagles also drew record crowds during the season, and Denson feels that lighting Pete Cronk led the team in several offensive categories including home runs (13), hits (69), batting average (.318), RBI's (61), at bats (217) and games played-started (62-61).

Wagner finished the season with an outstanding 9-1 record to pace the USM pitching staff while Duane Ross added a 3-2 mark. Cronk and pitcher Darrell Lindsey combined to break or threaten a number of Golden Eagle records. Cronk moved into first place on the career RBI list with 108 and is closing in on both home run and total base records.

Lindsey is now first in most appearances in a season (24), most career starts (41), most career innings pitched (282) and most victories (21). The team set marks in most wins (37), most hits (694), most RBI's (330) and most total bases (659).

Though the Eagles were considered for an NCAA tournament spot this season, an invitation was not forthcoming. AS' first-ever NCAA bid remains a major goal for coach Denson and the USM program and taking the successes of recent years into consideration, few would bet against seeing USM in the playoffs a year from now.

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought To You By Jim Henkle

One of the least-known, and yet one of the most amazing records in big league baseball history is the one for a player handling the most chances in a row without making an error. The record is held by Stuffy McInnis who was once an American League first baseman. In 1921 and 1922, McInnis handled 1,700 consecutive chances without making an error. Just imagine handling 1,700 throws, pop-ups and grounders in a row without making an error. No one has ever come close to that record.

Oddly enough, the man who started one of the biggest sports ideas ever conceived, is hardly remembered today. Few people recognize the name of Carl Stotz of Williamsport, Pa.—yet he is the man who thought of, and founded Little League baseball. Stotz started Little League baseball in 1939.

Here's quite a baseball oddity. There was once a pitcher who pitched only one complete big league game in his life—but that one game was, amazingly enough, a no-hitter. His name was Bobo Holloman. Despite pitching a no-hitter in the American League in 1953, Holloman was never able to pitch another complete game in the majors before that or after that!

closer this year than ever before."

Progress has been steady under Denson though. His first USM team went 13-36-2, followed by 22-41 and 31-30 records prior to this year's mark.

Highlights for the 1987 season aren't hard to find. After a slow start, the Eagles rebounded to win a school-best 37 games. That victory

Taylor Park will further increase attendance.

Four USM players were named to the Metro's all-conference team and one (Doug Cronk) also was named to the all-tournament team. Catcher Mac Duncan, outfielder Mike Moreland and pitcher Chris Wagner all joined Cronk on the all-conference team.

These days, it's hard to find anything certain—except change.

But, when you look closely,

you see something else:

people, groups and communities

transmitting strong basic values from generation to generation.

Certainly, the world's changing;

but it's good to know that some things stay the same.

4-H Congress to attract 1,200 youth, adults

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Prepared to demonstrate their skills and share ideas, more than 1,200 4-H members and adult volunteer leaders will gather at Mississippi State University June 16-18 for the annual State 4-H Congress and State 4-H Adult Volunteer Leader's Conference.

This event offers 4-H delegates a chance to share ideas, take part in contests and learning experiences as well as meet new people in a relaxing atmosphere, said Dr. Charles Sappington, state leader for 4-H programs with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"These 4-H members, representing the state's 77,000 4-H members, are among the most outstanding youth in the state," Sappington said. "While at Congress, they will have an opportunity to demonstrate the results of their practical learning experiences through participation in more than 50 different contests, for awards ranging from ribbons and cash to trips and scholarships."

Nomination and election of the State 4-H Council officers will be made during Congress. Council officers will represent the state's 4-H members at various 4-H events and will help the State 4-H youth development department in designing programs to meet the educational needs of all youth.

The selection of the State 4-H Awareness Team also will be held during Congress. Members promote 4-H statewide by telling about 4-H experiences to different audiences.

In addition, six National 4-H Conference delegates will be selected to represent Mississippi at the national event in April.

When not in contests, 4-H members will take part in educational workshops.

Volunteer leaders representing more than 3,000 volunteers statewide, will take part in similar activities. Nomination and election of officers for the State 4-H Volunteer Leader's Association also will be held.

"Night activities planned for Congress should be fun for youth and adults," Sappington said. "In store for participants will be a dance and numerous fellowship activities, along with time to relax and establish new friendships."

Other highlights of Congress will be the 4-H Awards Luncheon for all members, volunteers and donors. 4-H members will be recognized for their accomplishments and volunteers for length of service to 4-H youth.

The 4-H program, the youth educational phase of the Extension Service, uses a variety of methods to involve youth in worthwhile projects.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Get some long-standing difficulties out of the way. Show others that you are reasonable, thus avoiding any arguments.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) Romance is in the air, so make plans with the one you truly love and be happy. Communication channels are open now.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) Handle your personal obligations with flair and enthusiasm. Those people with a good sense of humor are the ones to contact for amusements.

HOLLYWOOD: When the funniest things in a so-called comedy starring top stars like Warren Beatty and Dustin Hoffman are a blind camel and some trained vultures, you know they're in trouble. Big trouble. "Ishtar," written and directed by Elaine May, produced by Beatty with lyrics and music by May and Beatty, is a great big bore. How any of the above-mentioned talents could allow something like this to escape beats me.

Another guessing game going 'round the Hollywoods is the answer to Bette Davis' statement to Gary Collins in an "Hour Magazine" interview. La Davis told Collins while discussing the men in her life, "I had a torrid romance with a married man. But I will never disclose his name."

Kathleen Turner is preggie and expecting her first child in the fall. This happy turn of events, however, is causing a bit of chaos on the set of "Switching Channels," filming in Toronto. Producer Martin Ransohoff is hurrying things along to finish before Kathleen begins to bulge, which meant a switch from Michael Caine, who is tied up in another film, to Burt Reynolds as the male star. Christopher Reeve also stars.

One of our busiest young actresses, Ally Sheedy, goes constantly from small to large screen and back again. Come July she'll be seen in the New Century/Vista film "Maid to Order." Sheedy plays a spoiled heiress who finds herself alone and penniless. She becomes a maid in the home of a flamboyant talent agent (Dick Shawn) and his wife (Valerie Perrine). Beverly D'Angelo, Michael Ontkean and Tom Skerrit co-star. Should be a lot of fun.

Special students celebrate with awards luncheon

MOTHERS LISTEN as their children receive awards. Mothers of Waveland Elementary School special education students were guests at a recent awards luncheon for the group. Each mother received a laminated placemat made by her child and a certificate of appreciation for supporting the special education program.

TEACHER JOAN TOMLINSON, standing, hands certificates to her special education students during a recent awards luncheon. The students include, from left, Sara Schmitt, April LaFontaine, Tiffany Kingston, Mikel Watkins, Cassandra Schmidt, Mark Ladner, Ruth Prang and Crystal Matherne. The student, most of whom are physically handicapped, used the luncheon to practice the manners Tomlinson had taught them to use for formal dining. The event was hosted by Tomlinson and her husband and was the students' first meal outside their home or school environment, the teacher said. The awards distributed included certificates resulting from another first for the group, a class play, Tomlinson added. She said all students have progressed better than expected this year and received awards.

Cochran named to Air Academy oversight board

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss) has been named to the board that has oversight responsibilities for the United States Air Force Academy.

Cochran is one of only four Senators chosen to serve on the Board of Visitors of the Academy. The appointment was made by the Senate minority leader, Senator Robert Dole (R-Ks.).

"The Academy's reputation for excellence is known around the world. I consider it an honor and privilege to serve on the Board of Visitors," Cochran said.

The board was established by Congress to provide outside review of the Academy's mission to train future career Air Force officers. The board reviews the all phases of Academy life.

This includes the curriculum, fiscal affairs, instruction, academic methods, physical equipment, discipline and moral. The findings of the board are presented to the President of the United States.

Every year some 4,500 young people are enrolled at the Colorado Springs campus.

PICCOLA DIETRICH, left, listens while Carla Schmitt, representing a group of mothers, reads the writing on a plaque being presented to Dietrich for the assistance she provided as a teacher aide for the special education class at Waveland Elementary School.

French Club members try haute cuisine

The Bay Senior High French Club brought this year's activities to a close when they prepared a French/Cajun meal at the home of their club sponsor, Mrs. Kathryn Edwards.

The meal consisted of "salad vinaigrette," Cajun pot roast with rice and gravy, home-made French bread, lemonade, and ice cream sundaes.

In addition, club members recently hosted an "I Can Speak French" workshop for elementary students from the Bay-Waveland School District.

The workshop, held after school, was attended by 120 participants.

French Club members worked with the younger students teaching them basic greetings, the numbers from 1-10, colors, and the song "Alouette."

Four students then acted out "The Three Little Pigs" as it was related in French by Mrs. Edwards.

Each guest left with a booklet to color and speaking some French.

Six French Club members spent a weekend in Southwest Louisiana during April.

They toured such places as the Acadian Village in Lafayette, Avery Island, home of Tobasco, St. Martin-ville and Evangeline Oak.

They visited with Famed Acadian pen and ink artist, Floyd Sonnier, who gave everyone one of his only minted Mardi Gras doubloons.

They enjoyed cajun meals at Mulatez in Breaux Bridge, Randall's in Lafayette, and La Trouville in Houma.

Last stop on the trip was a swamp tour with Annie Miller.

Montagnet elected Girls' State lieutenant governor

HATTIESBURG—A 16-year-old Tupelo High School student, citing education and highway improvements as major areas of concern, was elected governor of the mythical State of Magnolia June 10 at the 40th annual Mississippi Girls' State Convention.

Shannon Nunnelee of the town Belden in northeast Mississippi, running as a candidate of the Nationalist Party, was elected governor in a balloting by some 400 high school girls attending the week-long event at the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Mainly, I believe the biggest issue right now in Mississippi is a better education program, higher teacher pay and also our highways are awful," the new governor said in voicing her opinion of the state's top issues.

Nunnelee, the daughter of Pat and Sandra Nunnelee, defeated Federalist Party candidate Leigh Ann Thornton of Cleveland in the two-way race for Magnolia's governorship.

Other top state officials elected during the balloting included: Nicole Montagnet, 17, of Pass Christian, lieutenant governor; Leslee Grubbs, 16, of Pinola, secretary of state; Davinder Singh, 16, of Pascagoula, state treasurer; Tessa Kincade, 17, of Greenville, state auditor; Ellen Williamson, 16, of Florence, attorney general; Amy Blissard, 17, of Holly Springs, insurance commissioner; and Jonita Mann, 16, of Indianola, agriculture commissioner.

Delegates to the Girls' State Convention, students who are entering their senior year in high school, are nominated by local American Legion Auxiliaries from across the state. The criteria for nomination includes scholarship, Americanism, interest in the program and leadership qualities.

The state of Magnolia includes 10 cities and five counties. Girls are elected to a variety of office's at the state, county and municipal levels of government.

HNC students attend seminar

Sandra Reid, a 12th grade English teacher at Hancock North Central, recently escorted five senior students to Jackson for a Humanities Seminar. This seminar was held at St. Andrews Episcopal School March 28. The purpose was to conduct a "Writer's Workshop" for the first time. The seminar included the following workshop sessions:

Eric Ethridge, an assistant editor of "Harper's Magazine," Ellen Gilchrist, a writer of short stories; Barry Hannah, a teacher of English and currently author in residence at the University of Mississippi; Haynes Johnson, a journalist for "The Clarion Ledger" as education editor; Linton Weeks, a writer and publisher who is developing a tradition of non-fiction writing in the South; and James Whitehead, a fiction writer and publisher of three books, including poetry.

The students gathered for an introduction of speakers and an explanation of the programs format. Then, they were able to attend four sessions, each with a different speaker.

Summer work

Use teen creativity

MISSISSIPPI STATE—In times of high unemployment, teen job seekers have to be creative and design their own job specifications if they want to work in the summer.

"Use your senses," said Ann Jarratt, a 4-H youth development specialist, "Look and listen."

Look around in the neighborhood for ideas. Are there lawns and other parts of the home landscape that need tender loving care the owners don't have time to give? Are there shaggy dogs just begging for a shampoo and clip? Are there gutters overflowing with pine straw and leaves or garages that look like a tornado had just passed through? These all offer potential for the future entrepreneur.

Listen to what people are saying. Every time you hear, "I don't have time to," or "I wish I could get some help with," there's a potential job being identified. Chances are other people in town are making similar statements, she said.

Brainstorm. What kinds of skills do you have to offer? What extras can you provide that other creative kids in the neighborhood may not have? Do you have an edger to put that neat finish to a mowing job? Can you provide your own transportation to and from a babysitting job?

Can you paint the trim around windows without covering the glass, too? Can you do clowning complete with costume and face paint and entertain at children's birthday parties, or is puppetry your thing?

According to Jarratt, the best time to gain job experience is now, as soon as you have a skill and can perform it for someone else. To let people know about your services, place an ad in a local newspaper or on a radio swap shop. Or you and an artist friend could create an attractive flyer. It should include who you are, what you can do, when you're available, where you can be reached and how much your service will cost. The flyers could be posted on laundromat or grocery store bulletin boards and distributed to friends and neighbors.

Jarratt reminds that if you want to continue to earn money with this service you should:

Be dedicated to doing the best job you are capable of doing the entire time you are doing it. If you're waxing cars, make each one showroom shiny. If you're ironing shirts, make each one as wrinkle-free as if you were doing it for Tom Selleck to wear on his next TV show.

Practice good work habits. Arrive on time and make every moment count.

Follow your employer's direction exactly even if you think you know a better way. Keep written records of your employment, including the name and address of your employer(s), exact dates of employment, pay received and a thorough description of job(s) performed. Having this employment record will be important when applying for a fulltime job.

Get started now. Your employment history is waiting to take off.

New UM graduate curriculum focuses on South

The American South is a subject that intrigues a growing number of scholars, not only in the U.S. but around the world — witness the influx of visitors and letters from around the globe to the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at the University of Mississippi.

In response to this ever-growing interest, Ole Miss has developed a master's level program in Southern studies to complement its popular undergraduate courses. In its first year, the program already has four majors, some native Southerners and one from as far away as mainland China. More are expected.

"There has always been great interest in the American South," said Dr. Bill Ferris, director of the University's Center for the Study of Southern Culture. "The French have been fascinated with the South for centuries. There is a large and growing interest in places like Russia, China and Japan."

Dr. James Cobb, a professor of history and Southern studies, is director of the new graduate program. He noted that the core of the curriculum includes two seminars and a directed thesis project, with students able to choose between a wide variety of liberal arts courses to fit their interests and needs. These include literature, history, art, music, sociology and political science.

Students with summer jobs now may have to pay taxes

Many students with summer or part-time jobs can no longer claim exemption from Federal income tax withholding, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Because of tax law changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, students who can be claimed as dependents on their parents' or another person's tax return cannot claim exemption from withholding for 1987 if they have any unearned income, such as interest on savings, and their wages plus this unearned income will be more than $500 for the year.

However, students whose wages for the year are $2,540 or less and who have no unearned income generally will be exempt from withholding.

Students can claim exemption from tax withholding on their Form W-4 or W-4A, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," only if last year they had to pay no Federal income tax and this year they expect to have to pay no Federal income tax, the IRS said. If exempt status is claimed, it remains in effect until February 15 of the next year.

Generally, students not exempt from withholding should claim one withholding allowance if they have only one job at a time. Or, if they need or want more tax withheld, they should claim zero allowances. The Form W-4 or W-4A instruction have more details. And IRS has prepared Publication 919, "Is My Withholding Correct?" to help taxpayers determine whether they are having the right amount withheld.

Many students who had to pay no tax in the past will have to pay tax for 1987, and so cannot be exempt from withholding, because of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, according to IRS.

Beginning in 1987, any child who may be claimed as a dependent on a parent's return is not entitled to a personal exemption on his or her own return.

Also, the standard deduction for an individual who can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's returns is limited to the greater of:

— $500, or

— the individual's earned income, but not more than the allowable standard deduction ($2,540 for a child who is not blind).

For example, a dependent child who is not blind, has unearned income, and does not work gets a standard deduction of $500. If this dependent child works and earns over $500, the standard deduction equals earned income, but may not exceed $2,540.

Generally, if the child's total income is greater than his or her standard deduction, the child will have to file a 1987 tax return and will have a tax liability.

New Orleans culture to flavor Papal Youth Rally

NEW ORLEANS—A taste of Mardi Gras and a dash of the many cultures and ethnic groups of New Orleans will pepper the Youth Rally during the Sept. 11-13 New Orleans visit of Pope John Paul II.

The touch of Mardi Gras will come with a mini-Mardi Gras parade through the Superdome, complete with a handful of floats, marching bands, dance teams and drill teams, according to preliminary rally plans.

Sister Pat Cormack, SCSC, and Rev. Patrick Angelucci, SDB, co-chairpersons of the Youth Rally Committee, have been meeting with a representative group of young people and adult supervisors to iron out a program focusing on the many gifts of youth.

The theme of the program "will reflect the varied things that young people have to offer the Church and the world," Sr. Pat said.

A rally theme song, "Build Up the Body," written by Christian rock musician Tom Franzack, will be performed by Franzack and his band during the rally.

Young people between the ages of 14 and 23 from Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, and west Florida will be joined by organized Catholic youth groups from other areas of the country for the Superdome rally.

Over 71,000 youths and their chaperons are expected to attend the joyful yet spiritual meeting with the Holy Father. Approximately 9,500 folding chairs will cover the arena's main floor, including space for the handicapped, Sr. Pat said.

To add to the rally's New Orleans flavor, three students from area schools were selected to address the Holy Father each with a two-minute talk. The three students are Alexander Ennis, a 21-year-old student of Our Lady of Holy Cross College, Sally Davis, a 16-year-old junior of Mercy Academy, and Naldja Taylor, a

"After each school chose a student representative, the names of all Catholic high schools were put in one hat, the Catholic colleges in another, the public high schools in another. We just drew a name from each of the groups," Sr. Pat said.

Other youth rally features still in the planning stage include a card show and a performance by a dance team, Sr. Pat said.

Also, an organized program, including entertainment by local groups, is planned for the time before the Pope enters the Superdome. "This program will be an effort to evangelize the youth," Sr. Pat said.

Archbishop Philip M. Hannan said Pope John Paul II's address to the youth will be an inspiring talk for the youth.

"The Holy Father has always had a special affinity for young people," the archbishop said.

UP, UP AND AWAY!—Lydell Haynes, lower right, age 10, son of Myra Haynes of Bay St. Louis, and Ezekiel Davis, second from right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Davis, also of Bay St. Louis, release balloons at opening day ceremonies of the Summer Reading program at City-County Library in Bay St. Louis. Haynes and Davis are two of the more than 300 children who participated in a balloon release at the City-County, Waveland and Kila libraries last week marking the beginning of the Summer Reading Program for 1987. Activities will continue at the three libraries for the next five weeks with final activity to be an awards presentation for those who complete the program.

Pass schools get high grades from accreditation commission

The Pass Christian School District has been notified that the district meets the requirements of the Mississippi Commission on School Accreditation for the 1986-87 school year and has achieved an "accredited-clear status."

This report is the result of an on-site evaluation conducted on Feb. 9-13, 1986 by 15 state-approved external evaluators and two state auditors appointed by the State Department of Education.

The Pass Christian School District has been fully accredited under the Education Reform Act as measured by 32 performance standards prescribed by the Mississippi Commission on School Accreditation.

The state commended the Pass Christian School District for achieving an "accredited-clear status."

The school district, along with each of its individual schools, received the highest rating possible - a 5 or

A plus on the following standards:

1. The active educational leadership of the school board.
2. Educationally sound fiscal management system.
3. A wide range of organized learning experiences designed to prepare students to be productive, informed, creative citizens, workers and leaders.
4. Instructionally complimentary student support services such as guidance counselors.
5. A tightly coupled curriculum in which teaching is based upon a planned program of instructional management.
6. Fair and accurate student evaluation procedures.
7. Cooperative short and long range planning among teachers and instructional support staff such as guidance counselors.
8. Teacher demonstration of competency in major instructional skills on the Mississippi Teacher Assessment Instrument.

9. A comprehensive staff development program to support the educational program.
10. Demonstrated belief by staff that all students can master core skills of each course or subject area.
11. Belief by professional staff that all students, regardless of background, can master core skills.
12. Consistent recognition and reward of student and teacher accomplishments in academic and professional areas.

The Pass Christian School District will now proceed with the development of a five-year plan of improvement based upon the accreditation site visit which will involve students, faculty, administration, school board, parents and community business leaders, according to LeRoy Lizana.

USM to host regional band championship

HATTIESBURG—More than 10,000 participants and spectators are expected to converge on the University of Southern Mississippi campus this fall when some 25 marching bands in the region vie for national honors.

One of eight Bands of America Regional Marching Band Championships will be held Oct. 17 on the USM campus and will feature the talents of high school bandmen from Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Florida and Louisiana.

"We are very happy we have been named as a site for the regional competition," said Dr. Sherman Hong, professor of music at USM and coordinator of the event. "This competition will provide an opportunity for band directors, student musicians and their parents to visit the Hattiesburg area and get acquainted with the educational facilities in our School of Music."

Mississippi high school bands from Columbus, Clinton, Grenada, Kosciusko, Pearl, Peta and Poplarville already have enrolled for the competition.

RESOLUTION
There came on for consideration the matter of issuing special obligation, negotiable, interest-bearing wastewater treatment system revenue bonds of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, and after a discussion of the subject matter, Director Francis Keller moved and seconded the adoption of the following resolution:

A RESOLUTION DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE WAVELAND REGIONAL WASTEWATER MANAGEMENT DISTRICT, HANKCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI, TO ISSUE WASTEWATER TREATMENT FACILITIES REVENUE BONDS

WHEREAS, the Board of Directors (the "Board") of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District (the "District"), Hancock County, Mississippi (the "County"), hereby finds, determines, and declares as follows:

1. Pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 519, Laws of Mississippi, Regular Session 1986 (the "Act"), the District is authorized to issue its bonds for the purpose of, inter alia, financing the acquisition, construction, improvement or extension of collection facilities or treatment facilities, or any combination thereof in the County.

2. The District has entered into a contract with the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, the City of Waveland, Mississippi, and the County, and the District intends to enter into a contract with the Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, comprising certain of the unincorporated areas of the County and may enter into contracts with other affected public agencies as such term is used in the Act, pertaining to wastewater treatment facilities operated by the District. All of the entities having entered into contracts with the District pursuant to the Act are hereinafter referred to as "Affected Public Agencies".

3. The contracts referenced above (the "Contracts"), relate to the construction of the Wastewater Treatment System (the "System") in the portion of the County which System is composed of wastewater treatment facilities (the "Treatment Facilities") and wastewater collection facilities.

4. It is necessary and advisable and in the best interest of the District and the inhabitants of the Affected Public Agencies to issue wastewater treatment facilities revenue bonds of the District in the maximum principal amount of One Million Two Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Three Hundred Dollars ($1,287,300) to raise money for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, improving and extending the Treatment Facilities within the County for which purpose there are no other available funds on hand.

5. The Board has employed the Lewis Partnership, Jackson, Mississippi, a competent engineering firm, to study the System, determine the nature and extent of the improvements, repairs and extensions necessary, and make an estimate of the cost thereof.

6. Said engineers have determined the nature and extent of the improvements, repairs and extensions to the Treatment Facilities and have made an estimate of the cost thereof, which estimate is the aggregate amount of Six Million Two Hundred Forty-One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($6,241,500).

7. Said improvements, repairs and extensions, are necessary, are economically feasible, and would be in the public interest and of benefit to the County and the inhabitants of the Affected Public Agencies, and the findings of said engineers are hereby adopted, including the estimate of the costs of said improvements, repairs and extensions.

8. Under the provisions of the Act, the District is authorized to make such improvements, repairs and extensions and to provide for the payment of the costs thereof, or any portion of such costs, by and through the issuance of bonds, the principal and interest on which shall be payable from the revenues derived from the Treatment Facilities pursuant to the Contracts, which revenues may be derived from the avails of ad valorem taxes levied by one or more of the Affected Public Agencies or other revenues or income of the Affected Public Agencies.

9. A sum not exceeding One Million Two Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Three Hundred Dollars ($1,287,300) must be provided and raised by the issuance of special obligations bonds in said amount, payable both as to principal and interest as set forth above.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. The Board does hereby declare its intention to issue wastewater treatment facilities revenue bonds of the District in the maximum principal amount of One Million Two Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Three Hundred Dollars ($1,287,300) to raise money for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, improving and extending the Treatment Facilities within the County.

SECTION 2. Said bonds in the amount, for the purpose and secured as aforesaid will be authorized to be issued at a meeting of the Board to be held at the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Administration Building, 401 Gulfside Street, Waveland, Mississippi, on July 8, 1987, at 6:30 o'clock P.M., which date so fixed will be at least twenty-one (21) days after the first date of publication of this resolution, as directed by Section 3 hereof. If a petition signed by not less than twenty percent (20%) or fifteen hundred (1,500) qualified electors of each Affected Public Agency (which, in the case of the County, shall mean the qualified electors of the County who reside within the unincorporated areas therein) be filed objecting to and protesting the issuance of such bonds on or before the aforesaid date and hour, then an election on the question of the issuance of such bonds shall be called and held as provided by law. If no such protest be filed, then such bonds may be issued without an election on the question of the issuance thereof, and may be sold under the regular procedure for selling such bonds.

SECTION 3. This resolution shall be published once a week for at least three (3) consecutive weeks in the Sea Coast Echo, a newspaper published in the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, and having a general circulation in all of the Affected Public Agencies and being a qualified newspaper under the provisions of Section 13-3-31, Mississippi Code of 1972.

SECTION 4. The Secretary of the District shall be and is hereby directed to procure the customary proof of publication of this resolution and to have the same before the Board on the date and hour specified in Section 2 hereof.
